

Doaa Salman Abdou- Short Biography

Dr. Doaa is a highly accomplished economist and professor at the Faculty of Management Sciences at October University for Modern Sciences and Arts. She has a PhD in Economics from Ain Shams University, Egypt, and a master's degree in the same field, establishing her as a respected authority in academia. Her research expertise spans various areas, including Managerial Finance, Financial Institutions Management, International Economics and Trade Agreements, Money & Banking, International Banking, Feasibility Studies, Public Finance, inclusive growth, development, and sustainability. Dr. Doaa possesses proficient skills in statistical analysis and computer software such as SPSS, Stata, and R, which are commonly used for cost and revenue analysis, as well as econometric applications. As an approved consultant and trainer for esteemed educational institutions and universities, Dr. Doaa provides valuable consultations and training to multinational private and governmental organizations across diverse domains. Her profound understanding of conducting Feasibility Studies in Egypt has proven instrumental in identifying common risk areas, reducing costs, and increasing revenue throughout the project lifecycle. Dr. Doaa serves as the Chief Editor for the MSA-Management Sciences Journal (MSA-MSJ), and her research contributions have been published in renowned journals such as Economics and Policy, International Journal of Finance & Banking Studies, International Journal of Green Economics, International Journal of Development and Conflict, and Journal of Economics. In addition to her academic role, Dr. Doaa holds the position of Vice Dean for postgraduate studies. Her extensive knowledge and experience in the field of economics make her a valuable asset to the academic community and a trusted advisor for organizations seeking to enhance their economic performance.